September 2026

Q3

Table of Contents

The third quarter of 2026 has been a period of both progress and reflection for Ivanhoe Mines. We are deeply saddened by the work-related fatality of one of our employees, who succumbed to his injuries following the accident which occurred in Q2 2026. Our thoughts and sincere condolences remain with the individual's family, friends and colleagues. This tragedy is a solemn reminder that there is no more important priority than ensuring that every person who comes to work returns home safely. We are committed to learning from this incident and strengthening our health and safety practices, systems and culture across Ivanhoe Mines.

Alongside these challenges, we continue to advance our sustainability priorities with a focus on employee well-being, community development, education, livelihoods, human rights and responsible engagement. Moreover, Ivanhoe's MSCI environmental, social, and governance (ESG) rating was revised upward to AA this quarter, a reflection of how effectively the company manages material sustainability risks relative to industry peers. As we reflect on our quarterly performance, our commitment remains to responsible mining, continuous improvement and creating meaningful, lasting value for our employees, host communities and other stakeholders.
